Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 1, the term "e.g." is indefinite because it has no clear meaning and should be replaced with a different term. In claims 1 and 3, the phrase "portions (8) reflecting the shape of the eggs" is vague, confusion and indefinite because it has no clear meaning since eggs are not claimed in combination with the packaging unit. In claim 3, the phrase "said substantially planar surface" lacks proper antecedent basis. Which planar surfaces? In claim 25, the phrase "the package unit" lacks proper antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 2, 5, 6, 8, 9, 23 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Misdorn, Jr. et al. (3,813,027; hereinafter Misdorn'027). To the extent that the Examiner can determine the scope of the claims, Misdorn'027 discloses a display and distribution packaging unit (10) for eggs and the unit formed from moulded pulp comprising a bottom part (11) having non-planar side surfaces of compartments (14) and a cover part (12) having a top surface (25), substantially planar front and rear surfaces (26, 27) and portions (28) reflecting the shape of the eggs contained within the unit. The portions located on substantially planar end faces (see the Figure below) of the cover part at either one or both longitudinal ends of the cover part.

5. Claims 1-3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 16-19, 24, 32 and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hartmann (3,259,294). To the extent that the Examiner can determine the scope of the claims, Hartmann discloses a display and distribution packaging unit for eggs and the unit formed from moulded pulp comprising a bottom part (10) having non-planar side surfaces of compartments (20) and a cover part (12) having a top surface (24), substantially planar front and rear surfaces (see Figure 1) and portions (22) reflecting the shape of the eggs contained within the unit. The portions located on substantially planar end faces of the cover part at either one or both longitudinal ends of the cover part.

As to claim 3, Hartmann further discloses the substantially planar front and rear surfaces of the cover part comprise the portions reflecting the shape of the eggs contained in the unit.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1-9, 16-24 and 29-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Misdom, Jr. et al. (3,813,027; hereinafter Misdom'027) or Hartmann (3,259,294) in view of Bixler (3,362,605). Misdom'027 or Hartmann discloses the unit as above having all the limitations of the claims. To the extent that Misdom'027 or Hartmann fails to show the portions being located on substantially planar end faces, Bixler teaches a display and distribution packaging unit (10) for eggs comprising a bottom part (12) having non-planar side surfaces of compartments (24) and a cover part (14) having a top surface (40, 40'), substantially planar front and rear surfaces (42, 42' and Figure 1) and portions (46, 46') reflecting the shape of the eggs contained within the unit and the portions located on substantially planar surfaces (42, 42') of the cover part for better securing the eggs within the unit and to prevent the eggs from moving during shipping and/or handling. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made in view of Bixler to modify the unit of Misdom'027 or

Hartmann so the portions are located on substantially planar end faces for decorative purposes and for better securing the eggs within the unit and to prevent the eggs from moving during shipping and/or handling.

8. Claims 10-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of The French Patent No. FR2731986 to Menu (hereinafter Menu'986). Misdom'027 or Hartmann fails to show the portions comprise a surface structure being relatively smooth and the surface structure of the remaining surfaces of the unit being relatively coarse.

Menu'986 shows that it is old and conventional to provide a lid with the peripheral part of the lid's surface can be embossed/coarse and the central part of the lid's surface is not embossed/smooth. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Menu'986 to modify the lid of Misdom'027 or Hartmann so the surface structure of the portions is constructed with relatively smooth and the remaining surface structure of the lid is relatively coarse for decorative purposes.

9. Claims 25 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of The French Publication No. 2.133.279 to Vauchier. Misdom'027 or Hartmann fails to show the interface between the cover part and the bottom part being inclined downwardly from the rear side of the packaging unit to the front side.

Vauchier shows a container comprising an interface between a cover part (11) and a bottom part (12) inclined downwardly from the rear side of the container to the front side (Figures 1-3). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Vauchier to modify the packaging unit of Misdom'027 or Hartmann so the interface between the cover part and the bottom part inclined downwardly from the rear side of the packaging unit to the front side for better displaying the eggs and to facilitate removing the eggs from the packaging unit.

10. Claims 27 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Seest et al. (3,471,078; hereinafter Seest'078). Misdom'027 or Hartmann fails to show the lower edge of the front surface of the cover part being curved in a downward direction beneath the interfaced between the cover part and the bottom part.

Seest'078 shows a packaging unit comprising a cover part (12) having a front surface with a lower edge (36) curved in a downward direction beneath the interface (32, 38) between the cover part and a bottom part (10) to facilitate opening the unit. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Seest'078 to modify the packaging unit of Misdom'027 or Hartmann so the lower edge of the front surface curved in a downward direction beneath the interface between the cover part and the bottom part to facilitate opening the unit.
